

ONLINE PD Inside Learning Disabilities for Educators

Did you know? Learning Disabilities (LD) occur more often than all disabilities combined.

Understanding Learning Disabilities (LD) is so much more than a list of strategies. This course will explore current research of the brain-based underpinnings and cognitive functioning of LD to increase your understanding of the WHY and the HOW of strategies to increase student success. With a solid understanding of these two factors, strategies are more successful. Reduce teacher burn-out by building your understanding and increase student success by increasing your capacity to support students with LD. With one in ten students having a Learning Disability, this 10-module online course can benefit all educators.

The Inside Learning Disabilities course was designed by educational and counselling psychologists and teachers who work with students with LDs every day. All content is based on current research and best practices from a practical perspective. The objective is to increase knowledge, skills, and abilities to maximize educator and student success. The best thing is that knowledge gained to help students with LD can benefit all students in the classroom.
